Evaluation License

This license allows a time-limited access to the NOBLE software library, the corresponding manual, and building of applications for evaluation purposes only. The license does not permit any distribution of any concerned applications outside of the local development environment, or any commercial use on any of the company's or its customer's servers. Upgrades to a personal or site license will be offered at a fully reduced price.

Personal License

This license allows access to the NOBLE software library, the corresponding manual, and building of applications. This license allows commercial usage of the NOBLE software library in the scope of products sold or licensed to third-party customers or businesses. The license covers any number of products developed by a single user, and any number of sold copies thereof. This license also allows commercial usage of the NOBLE software library in the scope of applications running on one or several dedicated servers in the company's domain.

The license fees relate to access to the NOBLE software library for one platform, for a single user. Additional platforms can be offered with 50% fee reduction. The NOBLE software library is delivered for specified platform in binary form (i.e. linkable library) together with corresponding definition files and developer's manual.

Site License

This license allows access to the NOBLE software library, the corresponding manual, and building of applications. This license allows commercial usage of the NOBLE software library in the scope of products sold or licensed to third-party customers or businesses. The license covers any number of products developed within the same company division, and any number of sold copies thereof. This license also allows commercial usage of the NOBLE software library in the scope of applications running on one or several dedicated servers in the company's domain.

The license fees relate to access to the NOBLE software library for one platform, for a closely connected team of developers within the same company division. Additional platforms can be offered with 50% fee reduction. The NOBLE software library is delivered for specified platform in binary form (i.e. linkable library) together with corresponding definition files and developer's manual.
